PRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 20

We have been thinking the matter over, and have come to the conclusion that we are decidedly too mild—that we have not yet risen "to the height of the great srgument" now in progress before the American People—and that bolder and more decisive measures must be taken against the Rump than have yet been definitely proposed.

The argument being completed we have these conclusions:

Clined since 1860 our present consumption must be overone hundred millions of gallons per annum.

THE have these conclusions;

All that you have heretofore held most dear, and have most fondly cherished, as a free people—your pride and purity of race, and your right of self-government in your several communities, is threatened with overthrow, is overthrown, by the bold, bad men who, in an evil hour, have risen to political power in this country.

Your ballots are neutralized by the Bayonet!

Then there is no alternate but to Op, then, and show the blood that is

Referring to criticisms on the Demerat in Harper's Weekly, the editor

adds:

If our spirit and determination can prevail we will redeem this country from mongrel rule and negro domination, even if we have to wade through rivers of blood to accomplish if!

Harper's (African) Civilization shall never be permanently established in this land!

It was consecrated to WHITE FREE. DOM by our Patriot Ancestry; and we will win back the WHITE MAN'S RULE, cost what it may!

Now, we know but little of the youthful Covodes, who died, they did, for the vistar spotted emblem" aforesaid; but we do know, that by the unchangeable law of descent, they, it the natural and legitimate sons of John Covode, the Pennsylvania hyena, died not an hour too soon; the earth is cumbered and the nation cursed with too many of the foul breed to cause the shedding of many tears over the taking off of a brace of hyena whelps, whether they went down beneath the statuart arms of the brace Confederates, or whether they died, as is much more likely, from the effects of commissary whisky, and groupe and short shrift, then they must have made their exit in a claudestine this world through the agency of a long tope and short shrift, then they must have made their exit in a claudestine than the contract of the c

IT is authoritatively denied at Washington that General ad interim Thomas has received an offer of three dollars for his clafm of $150,000 against Mr.

The Director of the Bureau of Statistics, in reply to a communication from a Congressional Committee on the subject of the whisky tax, shows that the proportion which it now bears to our whole revenue is as one to fifteen, or about seven per cent., and that during the period from 1814 to 1817, whon similar taxes were levied, it amounted to the same proportion to the total revenue. As the revenues from distilled spirits are made up of taxes on production, taxes on sales, and license taxes, their fund anpears to prove that the demand for cheap shoes has been so pressing of late years, says the Lynn Reporter, that it has induced the most rigid economy in the manufacture. Hardly a scrap of leather is allowed to go to waste. The wagon londs of odds and ends made in cutting—the refuse of the splitting machines—are all worked up again into that kind of leather known as "pancaeke." As the revenues from distilled spirits are made up of taxes on produc-tion, taxes on sales, and license taxes,

We have before us a copy of Brick Pomeroy's paper, the La Crosse Democra. We do not like to defile our columns with the pestiferous emanations of this strocious monster, miscreant and blackguard, but in order that our readers may have a just conception of his diabolical villainy and ruffianism, we make a few extracts.

From a somewhat lengthy article upon Congress, under the caption, "What is the Rump? Down with the Rump," we quote. In setting out the editor remarks:

We have been thinking the matter over, and have come to the conclusion that we are decidedly too mild—that we have not yet risem "Agate." writing to the Cincinnation.

The argument being completed we have these conclusions:

These plain and irrefutable propositions demonstrate that the Rump is, as we have said, an unconstitutional assembly, and that all its acts are without legal authority, and void, and, of course, may be legally resisted.

Have we not reached a point when longer submission to mongrel rule is too degrading and oppressive for white men to bear, and resistance would be legal, we have demonstrated.

That it would be right admits of no question.

That it would be successful, we have demonstrated.

That it would be successful, we have doubt.

White men of America! shall it be made?

The whole country is groaning under the misrule of the Rump. Conspirators against liberty and law, they are public caemies, whom all patriotic citicities are justified in rising up and slaying.

Where are the bold hearts, North and Sonih, who will combine to rid the world of these monsters?

Where are the clastical, and set up the well'te them down?

The time has fally come when this bold deed should be done!

Patriots of America! Prefeare.
